Rorough Hall, at Third Avenue and 177th Street.

In December some five thousand Bronx citizens held a meeting to discuss the subject of relieving the court congestion. Speakers said that Justice Brady had done more than his duty by sitting on holidays, as well as on the regular days, but that it was impossible for him to clear the calendar alone. After the meeting William G. Mulligan, as the representative of a committee, consulted with Borough President Mathewson, who recommended the use of the board room.

Justice Ingraham, presiding justice of the Appellate Division, said he could not designate an additional justice for The Bronx unless there was a place for him to sit. In a letter he said: "We have not a roof to cover our heads." It was found that the Sinking Fund Commission was the proper body to take action. It is anticipated that as soon as the use of the board room is authorized the appointment of another justice will be made.

Some residents of The Bronx have subscribed a fund for a life size oil painting of Justice Brady, to be hung on the walls of the Supreme Court. Work will be begun on it as soon as the justice picks out the artist he prefers.

The discovery is credited to Dr. Samuel J. Meltzer, who made a sensation in medical circles in 1912 by the discovery of a means of artificial respiration. Twenty-five pieces of apparatus used in the new method already have been sent to Europe. They have been presented to the foremost surgeons of the nations at war.

The present method of treating tetanus has serious drawbacks. It consists of the injection of a prophylactic dose of anti-tetanus serum into the wounded. Soldiers have been taught to administer the serum in the trenches when surgeons could method to reach wounded method before the serum could do its work.

The problem that confronted the surgeons of the institute was to prevent convulsions, which so often resulted fatally. Dr. Meltzer discovered that the injection of a solution of Epsom salts into the spinal membrane would produce complete relaxation in many cases was so complete that it caused the muscles of respiration to relapse, and a cessation of the muscles for several hours, or long enough for the serum to take effect.

Then it was discovered that the relaxation in many cases was so complete that it caused the muscles of respiration to relapse, and a cessation of breathing followed. The problem then was to induce artificial respiration until the antitoxin serum could do its work in neutralizing the tetanus germs. Seth Bird Found Dead at Tarrytown on Eve of Trip.

Tarrytown on Eve of Trip.

Seth Bird, a former justice and two terms a trustee of Tarrytown, now a member of the Board of Education and connected with the law firm of Davison, Given & Bird, committed suicide yesterday afternoon in his home at Tarrytown. He was found with his throat cut, after the door to his room had been broken open.

Mr. Bird was a graduate of Hamilton College and was thirty-six years old. He was counsel for the village of Hastings-on-Hudson. He was to have left yesterday for a trip to Atlantic City, on the advice of friends. He was recently bequeathed $5,000 by a relative.

eral reserve notes, to be sent to Federal Reserve banks when demanded.

They will take the place, to a large degree, of the notes issued under the Aldrich-Vreeland act, which expires to-morrow. He contended that Frank had been deprived of the constitutional right to be present in court throughout his trial and that a mob spirit pervaded the courtroom while the case was being tried.

Chief Justice White interrupted to ask: "Is it your argument that in a jury trial where the accused is not present he has not been heard, and the trial has been illegal and he must go free?"

Mrs. Elizabeth Speidell, who has been suing her husband for divorce in The Bronx Supreme Court, received an absolute release yesterday, when the present was not one which the accused could voluntarily or involuntarily waive. "The right to be heard," he added, "includes the right to be heard," in the right to be heard, "includes the right to be added, "includes the right to be heard," in the right to be heard, "includes the right to be lawyer for the defence arose and announced that his client had died during the right to be lawyer for the defence arose and announced that his client had died during the right to be heard," in the right to be heard, "includes the right to be heard," in the

The chief justice questioned Mr. Marshall regarding the fact that Frank actually was heard in his own behalf and was present in the courtroom except when the vardict was rendered.

cept when the verdict was rendered.

The chief justice seemed to take the position that the due process of law guaranteed by the Constitution did not involve all the common law practices involved in a trial by jury.
